

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are devices for holding a substance library carrier, and which are useful in conducting reactions in which binding between complementary molecules is measured qualitatively or quantitatively. Also disclosed are methods for conducting such reactions in the device.

485480_1.DOC